ing over to port very lauch, and in a sinking condition. I ordered the boars to be launched, he longbout, which I intended to have long ed first, was so much out do by the pirates that it was entirely usolose; the other leat had four large holes in the bottom, which were patched up with carious, blankets, !Au., and then lowered over the side. During the tiens the erew were engaged with this brisiness, and I was scarching for the ship's papers, some of the prescurers but holded in the missen rigging two lanterns, although they refused a short while before to come on deck. By this treasberons not I was forced to leave the ship, after cutting adrift sourd spars, water-coaks, Acc, no time being formed by the men that the water was ru-hing in strongly under the atern of the ship, and laying convinced myself, that the ship was list; state of it this situation was not much better than that on board of the ship. "It may bore been about two or three A M. when we left the vessel, the weather boing ning and dark so that we were at daybreak only 5 to 6 miles from the ship; tuwards 7 or A.M. it was remarked by the carpenter pooning. I could not make the some observabion, but about ten minutes afterwards the vessel had disappeared and was not seen again, although two junks, which we saw a short distince from the didp, were disservible a bung while afterwards. On the 27th of May, towards sonset, the ex-wed to construct a raft, on account of the langurura neighbourhood of the pirates. In he bout were twelve parsons, and in the leaky hausted state of the crew, and the leaky bondly tion of the beat induced me to land on the East coast of Halpan, about 15 or 20 miles northward of Faber Tinhoa, to repair the bout and let the men have some rest. My opinion that the exist was not inhibited was erroneous, for hardly were we landed when a great number of people surrounded us, and took from its every article in our possession, and it was only by marching close together that we chald prevent them from tearing the clothes from our body. Afterwards an old min brought us to a village, where we were received kindly, and from there we murched on the next day about sixteen miles arther southward, to a town anmed Man-chaw. where we were provided by the Mandaria with food, money, and a safeguard to conduct us o the next Mandarin, in a town thirty miles northward, and so, from one station to the other, during six days, we went, barefooted and without hate; through burning het sands and swamps. On the 3rd of June, in the porting, we reached the aspital, Kien-chaw-fit, from whomeo the resident Mandarin work its to Hoi-han. In the latter place, Captain Velacroix Marsy, communding the Chinese gunlant (hun-hal, provided us kirally with money refreshments, and elothing, and also promised to takes us to Hongkong after his return from on board of the gunbout; and landed at Hongis kong on the 21st. Whon matching along the East Coast of Hainan, I remarked in the wherry, by which we were taken across a creek, a piece of word, apparently the stern of a ship's boat, with name cut into it. The first two letters ! could not discorn very well, but the rest were legible, and I made the whole out to be-

Lew-chew. On the 14th of June we were taken Trude generally continues very dull and misatisfactory. In the market for mainfactared goods a few sales are being made from day to day, and, the natives are still buying with great enution: Prices have apparently receded somewhat, but in reality the market can bardly he considered any weaker on account of the extraordinary rise in exchange, which equalizes, the apparent reduction.
